SUTLER SAYS HE USED BIG STONE

Slayer of William Brown is Captured in Maryland City. Makes Signed Confession before Cumberland Police.

That William F. Brown was killed with a cobblesstone, and not with an ax, is the statement of Solomon Sutler, self-confessed murderer who was arrested Wednesday evening in Cumberland, Md., as he was on his way from one negro saloon to another. Sutler furthermore declares that he dragged Brown's body several hundred yards to a nearby woods and that he did not use a horse for this purpose.

The arrest was made by Assistant Chief of Police Clay Wilson, of Cumberland and he is entitled to the $500 reward, half of which was offered by William Brown, of Gettysburg, father of the murdered man, and the other half by the Carroll County Commissioners.

Sheriff Stoner and a deputy from Carroll County passed through Gettysburg at 11:22 Wednesday night on their way from Baltimore to Cumberland to get the man.

About 11 o'clock Wednesday night Sutler sent for Chief Eisenhower, of Cumberland, and said he wanted to make a full confession. He was taken to the office of the Chief where he made the confession and signed it. The confession follows:

"I am making this confession to Chief-of-Police J. Thomas Eisenhower of my own free will, without promises of immunity. My name is Solomon Sutler. I was born in Baltimore and was sent to a reform school at Cheltenham, and then to the farm of William F. Brown. On Friday Mr. Brown cursed me because I did not get up early and on Saturday evening between 6 and 6:30 o'clock I went to the cattle shed and hit him with a large cobblesstone in the head. I then dragged him through the field by myself."

(Signed) SOLOMON SUTLER
Witnesses: J. Thomas Eisenhower, Clay Wilson, Isaac D. Boyd.

An inquest was held at Silver Run Wednesday over the remains of William F. Brown, Coroner Theodore F. Brown, of Westminster, presiding. The verdict of the jury was that Brown came to his death by a blow from a blunt instrument inflicted by Solomon Sutler.

The feeling in Carroll county is so bitter against Sutler that the authorities there deem it prudent to keep the prisoner in Baltimore city until his trial comes up. State's Attorney Seabrook, of Carroll County, says the trial will be speedy.

WALL STREET HAS PRAYER CHAIN FAMILY FRACAS AGAIN APPEARS

Wall Street Has Morning Row and Arrest Results. New Official Has his Initial Experience with Case.

Alleging that her husband knocked her down, broke off a tooth and bit her finger, Mrs. Mary Hansford, of Wall street, this afternoon laid information before Squire Hill charging her husband, Harvey Hansford, with assault and battery. The husband was arrested during the morning by Sheriff Hartman and Burgess Eicholtz. Incidentally it was the first arrest made by the new county official.

Mrs. Hansford, talking excitedly, unfolded a tale of marital unhappiness before Squire Hill. She said that her husband "did nothing but bum around"; that he stayed up at the mountain for many months; that he tried to make her live in a stable last year which she did until she could stand it no longer.

"I guess the jail is the best place for him," commented Squire Hill.

"No, he belongs in the asylum; that's where he belongs," answered the woman, who then proceeded to relate an incident of last winter when her husband, in his stocking feet, found pleasure in running around in the snow.

The trouble came to a climax Wednesday evening when Hansford tried to keep his wife from going to the post office, and the fracas was renewed this morning. Finally, according to Mrs. Hansford, the man struck her over the mouth, knocking out a tooth. A shot gun, which her son was cleaning, changed hands and a hurry call was sent for the officers, with the sheriff and the burgess responding. Several loaded cartridges were taken from Hansford after he was committed to jail.

The defendant will have his case heard at January term of Court.

WHISKY STOLEN

Thieves Use Autotruck in Raiding Waynesboro Distillery.

A band of whisky thieves, which has been operating in the Blue Ridge section for some time, broke into Welty Bros. distillery, near Waynesboro, early Wednesday morning, filled a barrel of whisky and rolled it out of the building. They rolled the barrel for half a mile to an automobile truck, upon which it was loaded. Several jugs also were filled with whisky and taken away.

It is thought that the thieves then went into a mountain road for several miles and hid their loot among the rocks. Five months ago thieves broke into the Pen Mar distillery and carried off a barrel of whisky.

COULD NOT FACE
LOSS OF WORK

And Wrightsville Man Took his Own Life. Neglect of Duty Made him Fear being Thrown out of Employment.

John W. Barnes, fifty five years old and unmarried, committed suicide at Wrightsville some time Tuesday night by shooting himself in the head with a .22 calibre revolver. The dead was committed on the second floor of the Municipal building, in which the Wrightsville Hose company has its headquarters. Barnes was the janitor of the building and also had his living quarters there. The body was found by H. C. Keller, proprietor of the Wilson House; Silas M. Birstock, hardware merchant, and Oliver Freet, proprietor of the Freet cigar store.

The only known motive which led Barnes to commit the rash act was revealed in a note he left, in which he admitted his fault for an accident to the boiler in the building that had been cracked recently. He stated in the note that he made a miscalculation when he looked at the steam gauge, and let the boiler go dry while there was a hot fire underneath.

It is also stated that Barnes had been drinking heavily the past several weeks, and it is thought that the latter condition disturbed his mental balance, and that he feared he would lose his job.

Immediately upon finding the body the authorities were notified and Coroner Pius H. Jones, of York, was summoned. After learning the facts in the case the coroner decided that an inquest was not necessary. In the note that Barnes left behind it was also stated that he had $25 in his clothes, which was found, and the coroner turned the amount over to Chief Burgess R. P. Wilton, which will go toward paying his funeral expenses.

HIS OWN LIFE AS BAIT.

Michigan Trapper's Plan For Luring Wolves.

Many ingenious schemes have been devised to lure the wily wolf to his destruction, but few of them have proved successful. Now, along comes Pete Le-Blanc, a trapper of Placidville, Mich., who claims to have figured out a plan whereby whole droves of wolves will march right up to their execution.

His plan of ensnaring the elusive beast, as he termed it, is to smear tallow and blood over his traps. With this he will make a trail through the wood and a wolf is certain to take up the scent. With the characteristic habit of wolves, after one takes it up others will join in the chase until the pack becomes large. After they have overaken him the trapper sets a all he has to do is to shoot them down.

All In Our Lives.

Generally speaking a man of fifty years of age has about three days worked 4,000 days, walked 500,000 miles, and lived 1,000,000 days. He has eaten 10,000 pounds of food, 100,000 pounds of drink, and 10,000 gallons of liquid.

Wherein the Profit.

"Is there any profit in selling postage stamps?" inquired the man in search of information. "Not directly," replied the druggist, "but it gets people into the habit of going to the drug store, and after that it doesn't take long to make chronic invalids of them."—Kansas City Star

My Most Important Law Case

By JOHN Y. LARNED

My most important law case? If you mean the most important case to me individually, it was a case of breach of promise. It was a case where a woman sued a man for refusing to keep a contract of marriage and to settle on her at the same time $100,000.
The strange feature was that the man, who was madly in love with the plaintiff, was as madly desirous to marry her, but claimed that he hadn't the $100,000 to give her.

My first interpretation of the case was that the woman was trying to bleed a man without having ever had any intention to marry him; my second was that she had a passion for getting men in love with her. Fitz Mooney, the defendant, in a written appeal for Kate Jackson, plaintiff, to marry him, had agreed to settle $100,- 000 on her if she would do so. He had at the time made twice that amount on the Stock Exchange, but had lost it all. For some reason that the lady kept to herself, knowing that he was unable to keep the financial part of his contract, she sued him on the agreement.

Kate Jackson was a widow, not especially good looking, but possessing a magnetism over men that enabled her to do what she pleased with them.
She came into my office a stranger to me, offered me her case, and I was convinced from the first that she was simply desirous of annoying Mr. Fitz Mooney, though what was her object in doing so I could not imagine. There was nothing to be got out of him, and I convinced her of the fact—if she was not convinced already—but she insisted on proceeding with the case.

Since I was then struggling to gain a practice and with poverty at the same time, I consented; but not before the lady had paid me $100 retaining fee.

I was soon sorry that I had accepted it. I had spent it. I was unable to get rid of my client by returning it.
Never have I had such an annoying case. Mrs. Jackson did not give me her confidence, and I was continuously in doubt as to what she was driving at.
Instead of my managing the case for her she was managing the plaintiff through me. Her ground of action was that she had declined several offers of rich men to accept the defendant, that he had won her affections, her other suitors had been married, died, disappeared or failed to propose again. She had thus been deprived of a pick of several fortunes. She proved these assertions by showing me love letters from these parties, and on inquiry I learned that they were rich men. What I did not learn was that they were not still available as bus-bands.

Half a dozen times I had the case ready to be tried, and every time something occurred to cause delay. Once the plaintiff, who was always speculating, having made $50,000 in wheat, offered to settle it all on her and marry her as well if she would accept the compromise. She peremptorily declined. The money was soon lost in copper, and my client to my surprise seemed suddenly mortified and showed signs of dropping the suit. I foolishly showed her a letter from the defendant, who was getting worn out as I was with the case, upbraiding her, whereupon she turned square about and demanded the whole amount for which she had sued, asking me if she could not double the claim.

Meanwhile my bills for services and costs were growing. The widow paid my bills promptly, but the costs went on accumulating. I reminded her that she would probably lose in the end, getting, if anything, a nominal award and would have to pay the court as well as my professional fees. But this did not stagger her in the least. The summer was coming on, and she went into the country, whence reports came that she had enthrallled every man who came near her. I was in hopes that she would be snared herself and drop her case against Fitz Mooney. No such good luck. The last week in August she wrote me that she would return immediately after Labor day and desired that I would be ready to bring her suit to trial as soon thereafter as possible.

But when she returned a change had come for Fitz Mooney. He had sunk a lot of money in cotton, and on winding up his debts the account showed that he owed his broker $75,000. This was not all. His troubles, largely his affairs with the widow, had broken down his health, and he was lying very ill in a hospital.

Such was his condition when the plaintiff sailed in to my office and asked me if I was ready to try his case.
I replied by giving her a brief account of Fitz Mooney's misfortunes, adding that I feared he would die before we could get judgment.

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" was the response.

Never have I seen a more sudden change. She begged me to call a cab at once, and when it came, apparently oblivious of me, she ran down to it and drove to the hospital.

That is the last I saw of her till after Fitz Mooney had recovered and I attended the wedding. I have seen much of the perversities of the fair sex, but nothing like this. I learned later on that the couple had been co-gized and had had a spat occasioned by a criticism of Fitz Mooney's of his finances, accepting an attention from another man. Out of this grew the whole trouble.

The True Gentleman.

Whoever is open, loyal, true, of humane and affable demeanor; honorable himself, and in his judgment of others; faithful to his word as to law, and faithful alike to God and man, such a man is a true gentleman.

THERE IS A VAST ARMY of men and women who really never know what it is to enjoy sound, vibrating health—who would be surprised to suddenly gain that exhilarating vitality that robust health brings.

Literally thousands without any particular sickness live in "general debility", as the doctors call it—have headaches, are tired, and indifferent.
To all such people we say with unmistakable earnestness—Take Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month and allow its rare oil-food to enrich and enliven your blood, quicken your circulation, stimulate nutrition, and aid nature to develop that real red-blooded life that means activity, enjoyment, success.

Scott's Emulsion is not a drug, but a pleasant food- tonic—free from alcohol.
One bottle may help you.
